

Secondary links

HOME ABOUT CONTACT

Patients Beyond Borders®

the most trusted resource in medical travel™

DESTINATIONHOSPITALPROCEDUREPATIENT EXPERIENCESBLOGFINDHome > Patients Beyond Borders in the News

Patients Beyond Borders in the News

 PRINT

Coup crisis could cost Thailand its medical tourism crown

Reuters, 23 May 2014

"News of violence that leads to adverse travel advisories or perceptions of personal safety risks can cause some medical tourists to postpone their trips for treatment, hoping that conditions will soon improve," Kenneth Mays, senior director at Bumrungrad, said in an email to Reuters before the coup." Read more

Affordable Health Care You Won't Find in the U.S.

Bloomberg TV, 23 May 2014

"Rising medical costs in the U.S. are driving Americans overseas. Procedures like hip replacements and bypass surgeries are up to 90 percent cheaper in other countries. Here's a look at the numbers behind the booming business of medical tourism." Watch now

Medical Tourism: An Evolving Market That's Ripe For Growth And Opportunity

Healthcare Design, 15 May 2014

"More than 1 million Americans are expected to travel outside the U.S. for medical care in 2014, according to Patients Beyond Borders, a consumer medical tourism resource. Globally, approximately 11 million patients go abroad for medical treatment, with top healthcare destinations spanning the globe from Brazil and Costa Rica to India and Singapore." Read more

More patients going abroad for medical procedures

Houston Chronicle, 9 May 2014

"After researching, talking to friends and reading Patients Beyond Borders guides, Greta found Dr. Vijay Bose (VJ Bose) at Apollo Chennai Specialty Hospital in India." Read more

Transparency and trust in medical tourism

IMTJ, May 2014

"The first step in transparency is for a hospital to invite review by a reputable, third party accreditor like the Joint Commission International. JCI surveyors look behind the scenes to evaluate what patients cannot. When Bumrungrad Hospital first invited a JCI survey in 2002, no other Asian hospital had JCI accreditation. Now there are many, attesting to the importance of third party review." Read more

Medical tourism broker Jens Raun seeks financial lifeline for comparison website

The Sydney Morning Herald, 30 April 2014

"It's high time the healthcare sector began to conduct itself with greater responsibility, including responsiveness to a competitive environment. Countries where competition is encouraged among providers generally have more efficient healthcare systems." Read more

The rise of medical tourism in the UAE

Gulf News, 28 April 2014

"According to medical travel website Patients Beyond Borders, Thailand is still the most popular destination for cosmetic surgery tourists followed closely by Malaysia, both offering services at half or even a third of developed country costs." Read more

Malaysia fast becoming a preferred value destination for medical tourism

Business Circle, 25 April 2014

"Patient Beyond Borders, which publishes medical tourism guidebooks of the same name, has already published a book on Malaysia in 2009. It is going to publish a second edition on Malaysia in September this year for international distribution. 'Singapore's costs for out-of-pocket care have risen 30% to 45% over the past five years, flattening that country's rate of regional growth, particularly amongst price-sensitive Indonesian patients, driving Malaysia's inbound

- ▶ For the Media
- ▶ Articles & Reviews
- ▶ Newsletter
- ▶ Statistics & Facts
- ▶ About the Author
- ▶ About Our Books

patient numbers to record highs," Read more

170 pounds lighter: Ben Lomond woman shares her story

Santa Cruz Sentinel, 21 April 2014

"The wake-up call for Sara Keenan came two years ago when she was hospitalized for pneumonia the day after her father's funeral. She had left her job as a paralegal working for the Santa Cruz County Superior Court after being deemed permanently disabled. Caring for her father who had Alzheimer's, she had gained 100 pounds after lap band surgery, living on ice cream and white chocolate mochas." Read more

The Flourishing Medical Tourism Business in America

HealthLeaders Media, 16 April 2014

"Yet as many hospital executives know, the United States is a leading destination for medical tourists—the third-most popular healthcare destination worldwide in 2012, with 800,000 international patients flying in to seek care, according to Patients Beyond Borders, an informational publisher for medical tourists." Read more

Are You Considering Retirement Abroad? What You Need to Know

WealthManagement.com, 11 April 2014

"Woodman urges retirees to locate near a western-style hospital that has been accredited by the Joint Commission International, and preferably one built in the past ten to 15 years. The good news is, most Americans aren't retiring in the hinterlands—they're going to be within striking distance of a larger city, and chances are good that there will be an excellent facility within a couple hours of anywhere you'd want to retire." Read more

Florida Is Trying To Attract Foreign Patients Instead Of Extending Insurance To Its Own Residents

Think Progress, 19 March 2014

"Medical tourism usually brings to mind the hundreds of thousands of Americans — both insured and uninsured — who go to other countries such as Costa Rica, Mexico, India, Thailand, and Brazil to seek treatment because medical care in the United States can be prohibitively expensive. But according to Patients Beyond Borders, between 600,000 and 800,000 foreign patients came to the U.S. for health services in 2013 despite the relatively high costs of care here." Read more

Top destinations for health tourism

CNBC, 14 March 2014

"Medical tourism—where patients struggling to afford or find the right treatment at home head overseas—is booming, with many countries jostling to offer high-quality health care at a good price. In 2013, around 900,000 Americans traveled overseas for treatment, according to Patients Beyond Borders, a provider of medical travel information." Read more

Medical Tourism: Crossing Borders for Healthcare

Nursing School Hub, 12 March 2014

"Why do 8 million people worldwide cross borders for healthcare?" Read more

Bali Medical Tourism Wants To Join Asia Action on Medical Tourism Scene

Travelers Today, 11 March 2014

"Though prospects of the hospital prospering in on Bali medical tourism seems fair game, breaking into a regional industry that already has some of the world's top international hospitals will be tough, says Josef Woodman, CEO of U.S.-based medical travel consumer guide Patients Beyond Borders (PBB)." Read more

Thailand offers tourists chance to win a new face

CNN Travel, 5 March 2014

"Josef Woodman, CEO of U.S.-based medical travel consumer guide Patients Beyond Borders (PBB), tells CNN an estimated 920,000 to 1.2 million medical tourists came to Thailand in 2013, which represents around 10% of the worldwide patient flow for international medical travel." Read more

Malaysia aims to break into medical tourism market in big way

New Straits Times, 2 March 2014

"Malaysia, for example, is eyeing the medical tourism sector which is inherent with considerable revenue-generating potential as patients in developed western countries, particularly in the United States, are looking for good quality but low-cost sites which offer not only medical services but also have attractive tourism attributes." Read more

Indian Healthcare Services

JP Morgan, March 2014

"India is gradually emerging as a destination for elective and critical treatment with growth of 25% in medical tourism over the medium term given quality healthcare services, specialized treatment options, post-care quality and cost saving vs. developed countries. Assocham expects the healthcare tourism market to touch ~Rs120bn by 2015 as inflow of medical tourist increases." Read more

Club Med

Mentor, March 2014

"Still, for those who have researched and planned carefully, a dental vacation can yield positive outcomes, as Chapel Hill, North Carolina-based author Josef Woodman notes. Woodman recalls being surprised and a bit mystified a decade ago when his aging father announced he was headed to palmy Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, for a mouthful of new teeth." Read more

What is the Future of Medical Tourism?

CCTV America, 27 February 2014

"CCTV's Mike Walters interviews Josef Woodman, CEO of Patients Beyond Borders, on the future of medical tourism."

Watch now

The Dream of Moving Abroad in Later Life. With Good Health Care

The New York Times, 21 February 2014

"Josef D. Woodman, author of 'Patients Beyond Borders,' a book that guides people on finding affordable health care outside of the United States, said that a few countries allow retirees who have established residency to participate in their national health plans. But gaining access to these plans can entail the use of public hospitals and lengthy waits for non-emergency services, he said." Read more

Médecine avec frontières

The Economist, 15 February 2014

"Patients Beyond Borders estimates that as many as 12m people globally now travel for care, perhaps 1m of them Americans." Read more

En el turismo de salud en México, hospitales ligados a firmas de EU

Vanguardia, 10 February 2014

"México, DF. Grandes hospitales asociados a corporativos de Estados Unidos, pero también pequeñas clínicas familiares fundadas por médicos de allá, concentran la industria del turismo de salud en México, detalla Patients Beyond Borders (PBB) o Pacientes sin fronteras, considerada la guía de investigación más completa sobre el tema, ya que ha analizado 200 centros médicos de 35 naciones por la calidad de sus servicios, lo que los pacientes se ahorran y la infraestructura tanto hospitalaria como turística de cada país." Read more

Editorial: Medical tourism

The Financial Express, 9 February 2014

"The total addressable global health tourism market, according to the Apollo Group chairman Prathap Reddy, is around $150 billion, yet India gets barely a billion or so. As per data from Patients Beyond Borders, a guidebook for medical tourism, India got just 3.5 lakh medical tourists in 2012 as compared to 6.1 lakh in Singapore and 1.2 million in Thailand." Read more

Medical Tourism Continues to Flourish as U.S. Patients Seek Lower Cost Healthcare in Overseas Countries

Dark Daily, 7 February 2014

Medical Tourism Continues to Flourish as U.S. Patients Seek Lower Cost Healthcare in Overseas Countries

"'And the best international in vitro fertilization (IVF) clinics have proven success rates that equal or exceed the averages achieved in the U.S., U.K., and Europe,' according to a blog post published by Patients Beyond Borders (PBB), a resource for medical travelers. This blog cited, for example, the Barbados Fertility Centre, which is accredited by the Joint Commission International (JCI) and Chaim Sheba Medical Center in Israel, as examples of facilities that offer IVF services with success rates similar to U.S. and Western European facilities." Read more

Paying Less for the Best

Delta Sky Magazine, February 2014

Patients Beyond Borders' latest comparative costs for medical procedures abroad are published in February's Delta Sky Magazine. Read more

Some with Alzheimer's find care in far-off nations

AP, 14 January 2014

"Spouses and relatives in Western nations are increasingly confronting Kuratli's dilemma as the number of Alzheimer's patients and costs rise, and the supply of qualified nurses and facilities struggles to keep up. Faraway countries are offering cheaper, and to some minds better, care for those suffering from the irreversible loss of memory." Read more

Medical tourism on the rise despite warnings

The Sydney Morning Herald, 13 January 2014

"No official statistics are available on the number of Australians leaving the country for surgery, but Patients Beyond Borders, which publishes guides for such tourists, estimates that globally about 8 million patients go overseas for medical care—and that figure is growing about 15 to 25 per cent a year." Read more

Patients Beyond Borders CEO Interviewed on Financial Safari

Financial Safari, 11 January 2014

The Financial Safari's Peter D'Arruda interviews Patients Beyond Borders CEO, Josef Woodman, for his weekly radio show. Listen

Taking an I.V.F. Journey to Israel

The New York Times, 6 January 2014

"A number of countries around the world provide fertility treatments at a lower cost than the United States, ranging from $2,600 to $6,000 in places such as Brazil, Spain, Russia, South Africa and Israel. The best international I.V.F. clinics have proven success rates that equal or exceed the averages achieved in the U.S., U.K., and Europe," according to Patients Beyond Borders, a resource for medical tourism." Read more

Profiting from Health Care Tourism

Investing Daily, 6 January 2014

"Patients Beyond Borders, an organization that provides information about medical tourism, estimates that patients from most developed countries can save between 25 percent and 40 percent by seeking care in Brazil, 40 percent and 65 percent in Mexico and as much as 70 percent by traveling to Thailand." Read more

Some With Alzheimer's Find Care in Far-Off Nations

The New York Times, 29 December 2013

"Their homeland treats the elderly as well as any nation on Earth, but Ulrich Kuratli says the care here in northern Thailand is not only less expensive but more personal. In Switzerland, 'You have a cold, old lady who gives you pills and tells you to go to bed,' he says." Read more

Tips For Overseas Surgery

Outside Magazine, 14 November 2013

"Headed around the world for some cheaper medical care? Follow these rules." Read more

Using a passport to cut the costs of surgery

MarketWatch, 13 November 2013

"The savings on medical procedures can be considerable, ranging from 25% to as much as 90%, depending on the procedure and location. In one example, Josef Woodman, CEO of Patients Beyond Borders, said that a patient needing extensive dental work who was quoted $60,000 for a mouthful of new teeth in the U.S. was charged $17,000 for the same work in Costa Rica." Read more

Seeking Cure Abroad Growing Number of Ethiopians Look for Medical Solutions in Foreign Lands

Ethiopian Business Review, 13 November 2013

"In Ethiopia, there is only one qualified doctor for every 35,000 people and until now, there is no medical center accredited for the international standard." Read more

More and more vacationers becoming 'well' traveled

New York Post, 12 November 2013

"As for notable wellness-focused destinations, 'Thailand is a hotspot right now,' says author and medical travel expert Josef Woodman, CEO of Patients Beyond Borders. 'Thailand is a huge center for spas, obviously, and wellness is already built into its culture. It's a slam dunk, organically blending wellness and medicine.'" Read more

Some Brits Find A Way To Make Cosmetic Surgery Part Of Their Vacation

Huff Post Travel, 8 November 2013

"Make sure you're in the hands of the best possible physician. 'If you're going for a heart bypass,' says Josef Woodman, CEO of Patients Beyond Borders, 'you want to know that particular doctor's done 300 of them instead of 20 and that that procedure has a 98.2 percent success rate,' roughly comparable to the rate in the States." Read more

Debunking the 'myths' of global medical tourism

MNT, 6 November 2013

"Patients Beyond Borders, which claims to be 'the world's most trusted source of consumer information about international medical and health travel,' estimates there are 8 million cross-border patients worldwide, spending on average between $3,000 to $5,000." Read more

Dental Tourism: Traveling to Another Country Could Save 70 Percent

Travelers Today, 6 November 2013

"Visiting a dentist in another country could save travelers over 70 percent on major dental procedures such as crowns and root canals, according to data from Patients Beyond Borders, a medical publisher. This type of procedure can be very expensive in the United States, even for those with dental insurance." Read more

Give Me Your Balding, Your Budget-Minded

Vocativ, 5 November 2013

"Josef Woodman, CEO of the medical tourism consumer resource Patients Beyond Borders, says if hospitals really want to attract English speakers in droves, however, they should be more language-friendly. 'They've got all these JCI sites,' he says, referring to the dozens of hospitals accredited by the prestigious Joint Commission International. 'But half aren't in English.'" Read more

Dental tourism could save you big money

FoxNews.com, 1 November 2013

"We estimate that in 2012, 400,000 Americans crossed international borders for dental care. For 2013, we project a growth rate of approximately 20 percent," says Josef Woodman, CEO of Patients Beyond Borders." Read more

Counterfeit Stem Cell Treatments Sold To Vulnerable Patients Willing To Try Experimental, Possibly Dangerous Therapies

Medical Daily, 10 September 2013

"In a 2010 paper published in Cytotherapy, researchers estimated that 750,000 Americans traveled for medical tourism in 2007; they projected this number to increase to 1.6 million patients by 2010. Patients Beyond Borders posts a more conservative estimate on its website, calculating some 900,000 Americans willing to travel outside the U.S. for medical care during 2013." Read more

Medical tourism expanding

Pattaya Mail, 23 August 2013

"Medical tourism is a $40 billion market that's expanding 25 percent a year, according to the guidebook Patients Beyond Borders." Read more

Traveling Abroad for Healthcare

CCTV America, 22 August 2013

Josef Woodman, CEO of Patients Beyond Borders, talks to anchor Michelle Makori of CCTV America about why more and more patients are seeking treatment abroad, and how to be best informed. Watch now

Tourists flocking here for sun, sea, and a bit of nip/tuck

The Malay Mail Online, 19 August 2013

"'Chinese, Australians, Middle Easterners, Singaporeans, Europeans, North Americans come for the mix of quality and value,' said Woodman. 'Malaysia remains one of the top value medical travel destinations, with savings of up to 80 per cent, and cultural compatibility,' he added." Read more

Asia Weekly: Ticket to health

China Daily, 16 August 2013

"Of the 11 top medical destinations in the world cited by Patients Beyond Borders, six are in Asia: India, South Korea, Malaysia, Singapore, Taiwan, and Thailand." Read more

Immigration News: Medical Tourism Affected by Strict Visa Rules

Live Punjab, 16 August 2013

"Woodman enlightens: 'India has been fairly neglectful of this industry. It makes a lot of sense and Indian hospitals like Apollo and Fortis are well-positioned to seek a foothold in parts of the world where people have no access to quality care.'" Read more

Heart Surgery in India for \$1,583 Costs \$106,385 in US

Mercola.com, 14 August 2013

"The lower cost is the result of one Indian heart surgeon's quest to make health care more affordable for India's population, where two-thirds live on less than $2 a day and most pay for health care entirely out of pocket." Read more

Cayman to Singapore Gain as Rules Stump Clinics: Corporate India

Bloomberg News, 14 August 2013

"According to Patients Beyond Borders, which specializes in medical tourism, if your total quote for US medical treatment is $6,000 or more, you'll probably save money by traveling abroad for your care." Read more

Save Money by Getting Medical Procedures Overseas?

Fox Business, 8 August 2013

Gerri Willis from the The Willis Report interviews author Josef Woodman on the potential savings of getting medical procedures done outside the US. Watch now

Saturday fundraiser for Dawni's Smile Project: dental treatment in Mexico cost \$27,000

Santa Cruz Sentinel, 12 July 2013

"Dawni Pappas, 49, loves her job. She's worked on-call for 10 years at the Santa Cruz Civic Auditorium, overseeing security, ushers and volunteers for special events such as concerts by Jackson Browne and Bonnie Raitt. But the part-time position with the city of Santa Cruz does not come with dental insurance." Read more

Texas women who go to Mexico for cheap plastic surgery say they returned disfigured and near death

New York Daily News, 10 July 2013

"The group's website lists and recommends accredited medical facilities around the world that have met strict international standards. Of them there is in Tijuana, and it's called one of Mexico's most respected. It is not the Jerusalem Hospital." Read more

Medical tourism: Latin America is a prime destination

Inside Costa Rica, 10 July 2013

"An IPK International survey revealed roughly 3 percent of the world's population travels to foreign countries for medical treatment, while Patients Beyond Borders, which publishes international medical travel guidebooks, reported the medical tourism industry is a $40 billion a year business." Read more

Women share cautionary tale of having surgery in Mexico

KHOU.com, 8 July 2013

"A group called Patients Beyond Borders estimates that last year anywhere from 200,000 to more than a million people traveled to Mexico to have procedures done. Patients Beyond Borders said people should look for a clinic's seal which will prove whether or not the facility has met strict international medical standards." Read more

Need treatment, will travel \(to Portland\)

Portland Tribune, 4 July 2013

"Woodman says international travel that combines wellness with tourism also is on the rise, with so-called wellness hotels trying to bridge the gap between traditional spas and alternative medical care for travelers." Read more

International medical tourism industry pegged \$40 billion a year

The Economic Times, 27 June 2013

"That's fueling an industry worth as much as $40 billion, according to Patients Beyond Borders, a publisher of international medical travel guidebooks." Read more

Top Travel Destinations for Medical Tourism

Bloomberg, 25 June 2013

"About 7 million people travel abroad each year seeking everything from dental work to weight-loss surgery to cancer treatment. That's fueling an industry worth as much as $40 billion, according to Patients Beyond Borders...." Read more

What can US healthcare innovators learn from medical tourism inside and outside its borders?

MEDCITY News, 25 June 2013

"Medical tourism is booming. It's a $40 billion global industry, according to data from Patients Beyond Borders." Read more

Medical tourism grows rapidly with mounting ethical and legal concerns

MEDILL, 14 June 2013

"A few years ago when Chicago area resident Natalia Bonfante Ginez wanted a gastric sleeve operation – the removal of part of the stomach to facilitate weight loss – she was told that she wasn't qualified." Read more

Low-Cost, High-Quality Health Care: Not Made in the USA?

Robert Wood Johnson Foundation's Culture of Health, 13 June 2013

"The US consultancy Patients Beyond Borders estimates that some 750,000 Americans will travel overseas for medical treatments this year in search of lower-cost care ... How much better would it be if such low-cost, high quality care could be obtained here at home?" Read more

How to Find a Reliable Dentist in Costa Rica?

The Costa Rican Times, 9 June 2013

"Global recession and expensive medical and dental care in well developed countries gave birth to medical and dental tourism in Latin America where Costa Rica has become one of the leading nations to provide quality medical and dental services at affordable rates." Read more

Am Patient—Will Travel

Cancer Fighters Thrive, Summer 2013

"Medical tourism creates opportunities for patients at home and abroad." Read more

Medical Korea 2013

Arirang, 9 April 2013

Arirang's Prime Time News program reports on Medical Korea 2013. Watch now

International Collaboration in Global Healthcare

tbs eFM This Morning, 9 Apr 2013

Woodman discusses growth in Korea's medical travel industry with This Morning host, Alex Jensen. Listen

The Rise of Medical Tourism

South China Morning Post, 8 Apr 2013

"As private health care costs escalate in Hong Kong amid long waits for treatment at public facilities, more people are pursuing cross-border options for a range of procedures. Most are drawn to nearby countries that can offer equivalent treatment at a fraction of the cost here. Others go abroad to circumvent Hong Kong's strict rules on certain procedures." Read more

Survey Sees Robust Growth for Medical Tourism

Travel Market Report, 4 Apr 2013

"But Woodman, who frequently travels overseas to medical tourism destinations, said many of the medical tourism providers may not be delivering the customer service they claim, particularly when it comes to responding to patient inquiries." Read more

Medical tourism: A global stampede for affordable care

CNN, 23 Mar 2013

"As health costs skyrocket, Western travelers are getting comfortable with "foreign doctors" and much cheaper procedures." Read more

Philippines Joins Medical Tourism Parade

Asia Sentinel, 13 Mar 2013

"The competition for health dollars is keen. Given the cost of health care in the advanced countries, more than 50 countries across the planet have identified various forms of health tourism as a national industry, unfortunately with widely varying standards of accreditation and health quality." Read more

Malaysia: Once a Hidden Jewel, now a recognized Health Haven...

Scientific American, Mar 2013

"For many years, Malaysia was one of Southeast Asia's best kept secrets: a warm, welcoming and beautiful location that also offered some of the best healthcare and wellness options for international tourists 'in the know.'" Read more

Inaugural Global Wellness Tourism Congress Announced

Global Spa & Wellness Summit Blog, 28 Feb 2013

"Throughout Asia, Europe, and Latin America, the wellness traveler is driving new paradigms for both healthcare and tourism. We're seeing rapid change and big opportunity, as stakeholders seek to capture market share in the evolving wellness tourism category." Read more

Obamacare may put end to doctor-patient relationship

Sun Sentinel, 26 Feb 2013

"... Americans determined to receive personalized care aren't without options. In addition to concierge practices, another tactic growing in popularity is medical tourism—traveling abroad for treatments and procedures, often at more affordable prices." Read more

Medical Tourism: A Free Market Alternative to ObamaCare

Examiner.com, 24 Feb 2013

"In assessing the potential impact of the Affordable Care Act (ACA) health care reform on medical tourism, Josef Woodman of the Huffington Post [Patients Beyond Borders] discussed the possibility of a decrease in medical tourism in the short term, but a return to growth in the long term." Read more

Medical Tourism: A Free Market Alternative to ObamaCare

The Objective Standard, 18 Feb 2013

"Costa Rica enjoyed a $196 million influx from medical tourism in 2012, Singapore will realize a $4.3 billion gain this year, and India will see a $2.3 billion increase in 2013." Read more

Can Medical Tourism Save Us From Obamacare?

reason.tv, 29 Jan 2013

"The rise of first-rate hospitals abroad may provide a vital lifeline for Americans." Watch segment

Op-Ed: Medical Tourism in the Caribbean

Caribbean Journal, 15 Jan 2013

"The Caribbean could capitalize on this burgeoning industry and familiar relationship between the US medical industry and the Caribbean, as medical tourism becomes a reputable alternative to the already high and continually rising costs of American healthcare." Read more

Hospital Holiday

HuffPost Live, 14 Jan 2013

Josef Woodman joins HuffPost Live in "Hospital Holiday," a segment on new trends and cautions for the medical traveler. Watch segment

Wah! Thai

Manorama's The Week, 9 Jan 2013

"Hospitals everywhere in the world are known for the same things—white walls, a peculiar smell and diseases. So when you are welcomed in a hospital with a smile, taken to the spacious waiting area with comfortable sofas and hear a live piano performance, you do a double take. Welcome to Thailand, a leading medical tourism destination." Read More

10 Top Health Care Destinations for 2012

HuffPost, 4 Jan 2013

"As US healthcare costs continue to rise and the options for quality care overseas become more widely understood, I'm often asked—by the media, in conferences and lectures, by friends and acquaintances—"Where's the best place in the world to go for medical care?" Read More

Josef Woodman Reports from the International Malaysia Healthcare Travel Conference and Exhibition

Medical Travel Today, 2 Jan 2013

"Those in our industry who were not able to attend the International Malaysia Healthcare Travel Conference and Exhibition (MIHTE) in November missed one of the year's best industry events. Several colleagues commented favorably, admitting to pleasant surprise that a regional conference could come off with such a robust flair." Read More

2012: Year of Milestones in Medical Travel

Travel Market Report, 27 Dec 2012

"From Ohio to Malaysia, the number of internationally accredited healthcare facilities targeting medical travelers is skyrocketing. Asia is a particular hot spot for development of outstanding medical and wellness facilities, largely because of demand from a rising middle class in the region, according to Josef Woodman, publisher of the medical travel guides Patients Beyond Borders." Read More

Toward Opening a Practical Dialogue on Improving US Healthcare

HuffPost Politics, 14 Dec 2012

"While much of the health care 'GDP gap' between the US and other nations can be attributed to cost of living, it's undeniable there's plenty of room for reimagining our approach to healthcare, not simply in terms of reform, but in market-driven innovation that reflects achievements in other corners of the world." Read More

Keep an Eye on Asia, Med Travel Expert Advises

Travel Market Report, 10 Dec 2012

Woodman shared insights gleaned from his recent travels, as well as his observations on medical tourism trends closer to home. Read More

The List—5 health apps for travelers

Boston.com, 2 Dec 2012

Patients Beyond Borders' TravelEmergency® mobile app makes Boston Globe's list of top 5 health apps for travelers. Read More

Medical Tourism: 1 In 3 Open To Traveling For Treatments, Poll Finds

HuffPost Healthy Living, 13 Nov 2012

"Nearly a third of people surveyed around the world say they are open to the idea of medical tourism - traveling abroad to enjoy cheaper medical or dental treatment, according to a new Ipsos poll of 18,731 adults in 24 countries." Read More

Tourism for Treatment

Scientific American, Nov 2012

Patients Beyond Borders contributes to Scientific American's "Annual Worldview Scorecard," comparing cost savings for medical procedures in nine healthcare travel destinations. Read More

Medical tourism: East coast conference offers glimpse of challenges Naples faces

Naples News, 29 Oct 2012

"Josef Woodman, president of Patients Beyond Borders, a Chapel Hill, NC-based consumer resource group for international medical care, acknowledges marketers with international hospitals say their medical care is high quality at the best prices." Read More

PR taps medical-tourism market boom

Caribbean Business, 10 Oct 2012

"Puerto Rico is considered one of the four 'destinations starting to get attention' in the segment, according to leading industry organization Patients Beyond Borders." Read More

What Obama's Affordable Care Act means for the world's hospitals

GlobalPost, 3 Oct 2012

"Sitting in blue scrubs in a hospital room, plastic surgeon Christian Rivera ponders a potential sea change for this Central American country's private hospitals, triggered by health care reform in the United States." Read More

Health Cheque

meetme, Oct 2012

"Luxury cosmetic surgery is a significant draw.... The UAE is also becoming known for its complementary and alternative medicine (CAM) services. Dubai Healthcare City is currently home to 12 CAM medical centres..." Read More

Bypassing Your Local Doctor: A Look at Medical Tourism in 2012 and Beyond

MSN, 27 Sept 2012

"As the Democrats and Republicans continue to bicker about health care, more US patients are tuning out and getting out, hopping planes to countries where the care is more affordable and, arguably, better." Read More

Outsourcing Healthcare

Huffpost Live, 25 Sept 2012

"48.6 million live without health insurance in the US. In a country where 60% of people skip doctor appointments due to costs, is the future of US healthcare abroad." Read More

Brasil desponta como opção para turista-paciente do exterior

Terra, 13 Sept 2012

"O turismo médico no Brasil é mercado certamente promissor, mas ainda incipiente se compararmos com outros países receptores de pacientes." Read More

Local firm taps dental travel

The Detroit News, 24 Aug 2012

"When Richard Dziurda found out five years ago that he needed thousands of dollars in dental work, he wasn't sure he could afford the procedures or even follow through with his dentist's advice." Read More

Medical travel can be lucrative, but fraught with complexity

Travel Weekly, 22 Aug 2012

"The package for a client traveling overseas for medical purposes could include meet-and-greet services on the jetway, a hospital staff that handles the baggage, even massages in a hospital room large enough to accommodate sleeper relatives. These are just examples of what might be offered by a hospital, not a travel company."

Read More

Medical tourism on the rise

FloridaToday.com, 22 Aug 2012

"Patients Beyond Borders estimates that more than half a million residents of the United States traveled outside the country for medical care in 2011, spending an average of $3,000 per procedure. The market remains a small aspect of health care but is estimated to grow at an average of 25 percent to 35 percent a year." Read More

Travel Health Apps Aim to Keep Travelers Healthy While Abroad

BetaKit, 18 Aug 2012

"TravelEmergency is an iPhone app by Patients Beyond Borders. It's designed to help those who may find themselves in a health crisis while they are traveling, and allows users to search a database of local emergency numbers and access directions to the nearest English-speaking hospital." Read More

There's untapped opportunity for travel agents in medical tourism

Travel Weekly, 14 Aug 2012

"Imagine a travel market that is worth tens of billions of dollars. The travelers fly all over the world, often in pairs. In addition, some of the trips are paid for by the travelers' employers, which can translate into business-class air tickets and high-end hotels. But regardless of who is footing the bill, these travelers are unlikely to book their trips on a computer." Read More

Middle East inbound medical tourism grows

AMEinfo.com, 8 Aug 2012

"The GCC healthcare market is on track to grow 11.4% annually to $44bn until 2015, with specialised healthcare cities and other major hospital projects are springing up in the region, paving the way for medical tourists." Read More

Tooth and Consequences: Fla. Woman Faces Medical Tourism Nightmare

Daily Finance, 2 Aug 2012

"Medical tourism is nothing new: For years, media outlets, including this one, have been reporting on the benefits of going to other countries for expensive medical procedures." Read More

Healthcare Reform Unlikely to Slow Medical Travel Growth, Experts Say

Travel Market Report, 9 July 2012

"The answer is yes, no, and neutral...Those who are currently uninsured—a huge component of medical travel—will gain access to covered healthcare. Some may be able to stay in the US for an orthopedic procedure that they were previously not insured for. Some of this will take away from medical travel. On the other hand, you can't have 30 million Americans (the currently uninsured who are expected to gain coverage) entering our already broken system without a tradeoff in the form of longer waits for specialty care." Read More

Bali wants in on the medical tourism action

CNNGo, 5 July 2012

"As a newcomer, Bali faces stiff competition from nearby international healthcare providers [e.g. the Singapore hospital system, including Parkway], value healthcare in Kuala Lumpur, the very established medical tourism destinations in Bangkok and to a lesser extent, JCI-accredited facilities in and near Manila,' [Woodman] says." Read More

World Class Healthcare

Delta Sky, July 2012

Thousands of Americans travel abroad each year for medical procedures. With a nod to this growing trend, Delta Sky highlights a few healthcare destinations worth the trip along with tips for safe travel. Read More

Medical Tourism: Why More Boomers Are Going Abroad For Treatment

HuffPost, 4 June 2012

"Our population is continuing to age into financially challenging procedures,' Woodman said. 'Every month the insurance companies find a way to take benefits off the table. Each month there is a slightly bigger piece of the population pie that is going to find the cost savings very attractive.'" Read More

South of the Border Surgery: Medical Tourism Market Grows for Cost Conscious Americans

Consumer Media Network, 10 May 2012

"According to Patients Beyond Borders, a consumer information resource about international medical and health travel, medical tourism is an expanding market that sees an average of 25-30% growth each year. In 2011, the organization estimated that the market was about $15 billion with about 5 million patients worldwide. Josef Woodman, Patients Beyond Borders CEO, estimates that in 2012, about 600,000 Americans will travel for healthcare outside the United States." Read More

Drug-Defying Germs From India Speed Post-Antibiotic Era

Bloomberg, 7 May 2012

"At the same time, it [India] is trying to preserve the country's health-tourism industry. Bristling that foreigners coined a name that singles out their capital to describe an emerging health nightmare, officials say the world is picking on India for troubles that impede all developing nations." Read More

Global remedy to a local affliction

The Sydney Morning Herald, 6 May 2012

"The health travel consumer organization Patients Beyond Borders said about 5 million patients a year become medical tourists, spending an average $US3000 per surgery and thousands more on airfares and accommodation."

Read More

Dr. Ayesha Abdullah and Josef Woodman on Dubai Healthcare City

Emirates 24/7, 3 May 2012

Dr. Ayesha Abdullah, Managing Director for Dubai Healthcare City, and Josef Woodman discuss the rise of Dubai Healthcare City as a medical tourism destination. The interview begins at 8:16. Watch Interview

UAE Medical Tourism

City 7TV, 2 May 2012

Josef Woodman discusses the evolution of Dubai as a preferred medical hub in the Middle East. Watch Interview

Healthcare City targets global medical hub status

GulfNews.com, 2 May 2012

"Dubai Healthcare City is attempting to stem the flow of people going abroad for treatment and position itself as the medical hub for international and regional patients." Read More

Josef Woodman on Medical Tourism in Dubai

Emirates News, 1 May 2012

Emirates News anchor, Greg Fairlie, and Josef Woodman discuss Dubai as a new global healthcare destination for the region. The interview begins at 8:26. Watch Interview

Monterrey Ciudad de la Salud

OCV Monterrey, 13 March 2012

"Josef Woodman, Autor del libro Patients Beyond Borders comenta sobre su experiencia en la ciudad y su impresión sobre los avances en área medica en Monterrey." Read More

Online Resource Will Help Agents Create Healthcare Travel Packages

Travel Market Report, 1 March 2012

"Centralized information on global healthcare packages that travel agents can customize for clients will soon be launched by a new alliance between medical travel guide Patients Beyond Borders and online global physician directory Medeguide." Read More

3 Reasons to Consider Medical Tourism

US News & World Report, 28 February 2012

"The underlying conditions needed to support medical tourism are largely being met, experts say. The quality and depth of foreign medical facilities has continued to improve. Costs are still a bargain for many procedures, and medical tourism travel brokers have become better at putting together the packages needed for a successful experience." Read More

Medical tourism in the UAE experiences growing pains

The National, 18 February 2012

"While providers of private health care are gearing up to promote the country as a hub for medical tourism, health experts warn the efforts may be premature." Read More

Megaproyecto de salud en Nuevo León

El Economista, 17 February 2012

Monterrey's Economist covers the rise of medical tourism, launch of Patients Beyond Borders Monterrey Edition and the opening of two new high-profile hospitals. Read More

Alliance Aims for One-Stop Med Travel Shop

Travel Market Report, 9 February 2012

"Providing a 'one-stop shop for international healthcare consumers in search of safe, affordable medical care' is the objective of a new alliance between medical travel guide Patients Beyond Borders and online global physician directory Medeguide." Read More

Spotlight: Patients Beyond Borders and Medeguide Form Strategic Alliance

Medical Travel Today, 8 February 2012

Josef Woodman and Medeguide co-founder Ruben Toral shed light on their recent strategic alliance. Read More

Passport to Health

Delta Sky, February 2012

"'Everyone is looking for cost savings,' says Woodman. 'And surgeries are natural targets because they're high-ticket items.'" Read More

Medical Tourism: Closing the International Healthcare Gap

AARP International's The Journal, 2012

We are honored to have been invited to pen the first article on medical tourism for the prestigious AARP International's The Journal, distributed worldwide to high-level government and policy personnel. In this article, Woodman introduces medical travel as a vital component to global healthcare and explains its impact on the international medical community. Read More

Operacja Bangkok

Forbes Poland, February 2012

"Od wybielania zębów przez zmianę płci po operacje na otwartym sercu. W ubiegłym roku ponad 1,5 miliona turystów odwiedziło Tajlandię, by wydać w sumie 2,15 mld dol. na usługi medyczne. Tak powstawał światowy lider w tej branży" Read More

Patients Beyond Borders and Medeguide form alliance

International Medical Travel Journal, 23 January 2012

"Patients Beyond Borders, a source of consumer and industry information about international health travel, and Medeguide, an online international doctor directory, have formed an alliance to provide patients with search tools for global healthcare options, and to provide hospitals and health travel third parties with a unique offering of branding and marketing tools for the international patient." Read More

Wealthcare

Southeast Asia Globe, 13 January 2012

"Private hospitals are capitalising on strained Western health services and rising Asian incomes." Read More

Trends in Medical Tourism

Peter Greenberg Worldwide, 7 January 2012

Peter Greenberg and Joe Woodman discuss the latest trends in medical tourism, including top destinations and the rising numbers of patients seeking healthcare abroad. Read More

Medical Travel Is Poised to Gain Momentum in 2012

Travel Market Report, 5 January 2012

"Will 2012 be the year that medical travel takes off? With PepsiCo's announcement last month that it will cover certain medical travel costs for its 250,000 domestic employees, medical travel experts say it could well be." Read More

Trends for 2012

Dentistry IQ, 5 January 2012

"Globalization of medical and dental care and practice will become a progressively more prevailing way to meet these needs. Medical tourism has always been a niche option for a fortunate or not-so-fortunate few. It seems to be for more daring types; however, it is becoming a typical option for anyone with a passport." Read More

Flying patients—Global

Monocle, January 2012

"Consumers are increasingly looking beyond their native borders for low-cost, quality healthcare – and if there's a safari thrown into the package, all the better. Monocle looks at the global hotspots attracting patients wanting anything from hi-tech surgery to a facelift." Read More

Health Care Bargains Abroad

Kiplinger, January 2012

"Bruce Pearson owns a nursery, raising orchids and other lush flora in Boynton Beach, Fla. But it was painful sciatica that made his back as delicate as a hothouse flower. While leading an eco-tour in Thailand a few years ago, Pearson experienced back pain so severe that it put him in a local hospital. The treatment he received converted him into an enthusiastic medical tourist." Read More

Visite nuestras playas... y nuestras ¡clínicas!

Capital, January 2012

"Los viajes por motivos de salud suponen una lucrativa industria que mueve miles de millones. Desde Israel hasta estados unidos, pasando por India, medio centenar de países pelean para lograr su trozo de este jugoso pastel." Read More

Money Power: Be careful with foreign medical trip

Tulsa World, 31 December 2011

"If you're considering medical travel, your first stop should be the book Patients Beyond Borders by Josef Woodman, a comprehensive guide to medical travel with information about the best international hospitals and clinics." Read More

Spending: Save on health care abroad

Chicago Tribune, 30 December 2011

"This year, more than a half-million US residents will get medical care abroad, according to Patients Beyond Borders, a consumer advisory service. That number is likely to grow at a 25 percent to 35 percent annual rate." Read More

More People Heading Overseas to Receive Medical Treatment

Fox Business News, 2 December 2011

Fox Business's Cheryl Casone interviews Patients Beyond Borders founder, Josef Woodman, about opportunities to save on costly medical procedures by heading overseas. Read More

Medical Travel a Hot Topic at AARP Conference

Travel Market Report, 13 October 2011

"Medical travel as an option to control the cost of healthcare is getting noticed by AARP members." Read More

More Americans going abroad for medical treatment to save money

Daily News, 11 October 2011

"At the same time, the view of medical standards in exotic locales in South and Central America and Asia has improved dramatically—and for good reason. Over the past decade, more than 400 organizations in 39 countries have been accredited by the Joint Commission International, which is affiliated with the same body that accredits US hospitals." Read More

Top 5 Alternatives to Traditional Health Insurance

HealthNews, 7 October 2011

"For the underinsured and uninsured, medical tourism provides choices in quality medical care at more affordable prices than they can get in the United States. Even with travel expenses included, patients still come out well ahead in out-of-pocket expenses, as procedures are 30 to 90 percent cheaper abroad (varies by country and procedure)." Read More

Stay Healthy, Save Money: 5 Ways You Can Take Charge of Your Healthcare Costs

Huffington Post, 30 September 2011

"During my travels over the past five years, I have met hundreds of patients in dozens of hospitals, and I've repeatedly observed that proactive patients tend to be rewarded with satisfactory, affordable solutions and successful outcomes, while those who settle for the status quo get what's meted out to them." Read More

Hey, We're Number ... Uh ... 36!

Truth Out, 27 September 2011

"As we wrestle with the increasingly expensive burden of health care, why does such a large segment of the American population ignore or spurn the example of countries that provide their citizens better care at a lower price?" Read More

Top Ten Medical Procedures You Can Do Abroad

PeterGreenberg.com, 26 September 2011

"Half of travel planning is looking for the right deal. We seek out affordable airfare, car rentals, accommodations, even entertainment. Why not also 'shop' for value with your healthcare? Josef Woodman, author of Patients Beyond Borders and healthcare advocate, argues it's high time to choose to go abroad for some of your medical needs." Read More

Good News: Your Medical Options Now Include Latin America

AARP Blog, 29 September 2011

"Today, as guest blogger, we have one of our speakers for AARP's upcoming Life@50. Josef Woodman is the author of Patients Beyond Borders, the bestselling consumer reference for international health travel, and is a leading advocate of affordable, high-quality medical care for healthcare consumers worldwide. Read below to get his take on why traveling to Latin America for health treatments may make sense for some patients." Read More

Medical Tourism: A New \(and Affordable\) Force in Health Care

HealthNews, 15 September 2011

"Also of concern to many are the standards of the facilities. According to Patients Beyond Borders, the governments of countries such as India and Thailand have poured billions of dollars into improving their healthcare systems. In their zest to cater to medical tourists, they offer VIP waiting lounges, deluxe hospital accommodations, and medically staffed recuperation 'resorts.'" Read More

Medical tourism: A faraway health fix

Chicago Tribune, 3 August 2011

"In the meantime, other trends have emerged. A rise in quality surgical care in Latin America and Mexico — JCI accredited several hospitals in Mexico in the last three years — has given Americans the option to take short trips for cardiac, orthopedic and other highly invasive surgeries that used to be the purview of majestic medical centers in Thailand or India, Woodman said." Read More

Medical tourism: Is Now the Time to Offer This Benefit?

Benefits Magazine, July 2011

"Medical tourism—seeking medical services abroad—may make sense as an employee benefit. Some procedures are significantly less costly abroad, and many foreign facilities offer topnotch, safe medical care. Medical tourism facilitators can offer guidance." Read More

Health Costs in Singapore

The Diplomat, 23 June 2011

"The patient died of cancer, and Brunei later complained about the costs of her bill and won support from Patients Beyond Borders, which is calling for increased oversight amid tarnished reputations at all levels." Read More

Brunei Royalty's \$20 Million Bill May Thwart Singapore's Medical Ambitions

Bloomberg, 19 June 2011

"Reputations are tarnished at all levels" with such scandals, said Josef Woodman, who spent more than five years researching medical tourism and is the author of Patients Beyond Borders, a guide to finding offshore medical treatment. "This underscores the need for improved oversight and regulations that would help to prevent abuses." Read More

Medical tourism wins fans

Reuters, 15 June 2011

"The savings can be significant. Angioplasty that can cost up to $43,000 in the U.S. costs $4,700 in India, or $7,300 in Malaysia, according to data compiled by patientsbeyondborders.com. And in terms of amenities, hospitals like the famed Bumrungrad in Bangkok put their cash-strapped American counterparts to shame. Touches like marble floors, gourmet food, and "Royal Suites," more reminiscent of a resort than a hospital." Read More

Medical Tourism Map: Where Patients Go to Save

Mint.com, 7 June 2011

"As out-of-pockets costs for medical treatment climb in the US, more and more overseas health providers are catering to American patients who seek to save money on their procedures." Read More

Hungary, Turkey, Oklahoma See Gains in Medical Travel

Travel Market Report, 19 May 2011

"Healthcare is flourishing throughout Latin America,' Woodman said... 'This is good news for the short-haul US and Canadian traveler, as well as expats and citizens in the region.'" Read More

High-tech and low prices attract medical tourists

The Wall Street Journal, 17 May 2011

"Turkey has a robust healthcare system and hospitals... It should make Westerners—or anyone considering medical tourism—put Turkey on a short list of preferred destinations." Read More

Trends

The Milken Institute Review, Second Quarter 2011

"Is medical tourism ready for prime time? Absolutely. Will it affect the price or quality of US health care? Not anytime soon." Read More

Market is Ripe for Short-Haul Medical Travel

Travel Market Report, 18 April 2011

"Travel agents should 'take a good long look' at specializing in growing short-haul markets in the Southwest and Southeast for medical travel to Mexico and Central America." Read More

Taiwan taps China for lucrative medical tourism market

BBC News, 31 March 2011

"The middle class in China is growing far more rapidly than the Chinese healthcare system can keep up with," says Woodman. Read More

Nip & Tuck: medical tourism on the rise

ABC, 18 March 2011

Patients Beyond Borders speaks out on the savings and benefits of traveling to Monterrey, Mexico for medical care. Read More

Malaysia's healthcare value and quality go hand in hand

eTurboNews, 3 March 2011

"Few 'outsiders' know of Malaysia's progress in the medical field... 'Malaysia is one of the few destinations that offer the trifecta for English-speaking medical tourists: excellent healthcare, low costs, and English spoken throughout the country.'" Read More

Helseturisme med bismak

MandagMorgen, 14 February 2011

The increasing health tourism market gives a number of developing countries access to greater revenue. But this rapidly growing market for the purchase of health services across national boundaries can also contribute to the impoverishment of the health sector in many countries. Read More

Medical tourism pros consider impact of healthcare reform

Travel Weekly, 25 January 2011

"It is still unclear how health care reform will play out in the US, let alone in the global medical tourism marketplace—whether having more or better coverage will encourage Americans who might have sought medical procedures abroad to get the health care they need in the US instead, or whether the US health care system will in fact become more strained, pushing even more people to seek alternatives abroad." Read More

Medical Tourism for Plastic Surgery, Fertility Treatments, Dental and Primary Care

Yahoo! Associated Content, 19 January 2011

"Although medical tourism has received a lot of attention for its nip-tuck-type trips, you can get both medically-necessary and cosmetic treatments done by talented physicians around the globe." Read More

Outlook 2011: 1.6 Million Medical Travelers = Enticing Opportunities

Travel Market Report, 3 January 2011

"Medical travel is poised to become a profitable niche for travel sellers willing to invest in education, training and marketing in an industry that currently includes an estimated 1.6 million travelers." Read More

After Surgery to Slim Down, the Bills Can Pile Up

The New York Times, 31 December 2010

"Some people without insurance coverage choose to have bariatric surgery in Latin America or Asia, where the cost is 40 percent to 70 percent less than in the United States, according to Josef Woodman, author of Patients Beyond Borders, a consumer guide to medical tourism." Read More

Taiwan Wants to Touch Your Heart

China RealTime Report, 7 December 2010

"Speaking to reporters over the weekend, President Ma Ying-jeou said the government planned to get serious about drawing visitors to the island, not for its night market eats or museums, but to undergo medical procedures like heart surgery or fertility treatment." Read More

News Highlights from 2010

Taiwan cashes in on medical tourism

The Straits Times, Singapore, 12 November 2010

"But, as Mr Woodman told a press briefing organized by the task force, Taiwan has one major edge: geography. 'You could focus just on the mainland Chinese audience and have more medical tourists than you know what to do with,' quipped Mr Woodman." Read More

Medi-Spas Get a Facelift

AsiaSpa, September 2010

"With the Asian spa scene proliferating at a spectacular rate it is unsurprising that Asia-based spa owners and groups are interspersing deep tissue massages and exfoliating facials with blood and urine analyses, stress tests and genomics," says Josef Woodman, author of medi-tourism guidebook, Patients Beyond Borders." Read More

Sea, Sun, and Scalpels: Brazil's Bid to Be the Four Seasons of Medical Tourism

Fast Company, 31 August 2010

"Brazil, which has seen the number of foreign patients rise from 48,000 in 2005 to 180,000 last year—and is growing at a 30% clip year-over-year—is poised to draw still more from its neighbors and the US thanks to shorter flights and a bump from futebol." Read More

Medical Tourism Today: Patients Beyond Borders

Peter Greenberg Worldwide, 18 August 2010

"Ever considered going to Bangkok for knee surgery? How about Mexico for dental work? Peter recently chatted with Josef Woodman, the author of Patients Beyond Borders, a guide to medical tourism, about the trend of traveling abroad for affordable health care." Listen to the interview

The Top 10 Medical Travel Destinations

International Living, 1 June 2010

"Many vacationers already know Chennai, India, for its long sandy beaches and Costa Rica for its rich, tropical landscape. But both places are also among the top 10 destinations for medical tourism." Read More

Traveling Abroad for Medical Care

AARP, June 2010

"International medical travel is growing in popularity due to cost savings and, for many Hispanics, language and cultural reasons. Dr. Elmer Huerta explains the importance of researching the quality of doctors and hospitals before making a decision to receive medical care overseas." Read More

Aided By A New Book Lauding Its Low-Cost Hospitals, Turkey Has Launched A Drive to Attract Medical Tourism

Frommer's, 3 March 2010

"Think Turkey.' That's the novel message of a new, Turkey-specific edition of Patients Beyond Borders, the book that has brought a great deal of attention to the possibility of seeking low-cost medical treatments in foreign countries."

Read More

Growing Reasons to Consider Medical Tourism

US News & World Report, 12 February 2010

"Medical tourism, largely grounded last year by the sharp economic downturn, is expected to make a comeback as people begin to feel more positive about their finances." Read More

News Highlights from 2009

"Medical Tourism" to Grow as Thrift Prevails

The Street, 10 November 2009

"Post-recession thrift, health care reform and the aging baby boom generation will likely lead to a surge in overseas 'medical tourism.'" Read More

A Global Guide to Medical Tourism

Oprah.com, 9 November 2009

Oprah introduces her audience for the first time to medical tourism; Patients Beyond Borders author lends advice to patients considering travel overseas for medical care. Read More

Medical Tourism: Update and Implications - 2009 Report

Deloitte, 23 October 2009

Deloitte Center for Health Solutions cites JCI and Patients Beyond Borders as "neutral overseers" in recently released medical tourism report update. Read More

Renowned hospitals lead medical tourism

The Korea Herald, 26 August 2009

In the second of a two-part series on medical tourism in Korea, The Korea Herald reviews Korea's leading international hospitals and medical travel destinations. Read More

Book to boost nation's healthcare profile

New Straits Times, 7 July 2009

"Malaysia is set to raise its profile in healthcare travel through an international guide on medical services in the country." Read More

Medical tourism: Have illness, will travel

CNN, 26 March 2009

"Josef Woodman, author of Patients Beyond Borders, a guide to medical tourism, told CNN that two to three million people travel outside their home country for treatment each year, while consultancy firm Deloitte calculates that 750,000 Americans traveled abroad for treatment last year." Read More

Going Abroad to Find Affordable Health Care

The New York Times, 21 March 2009

"The cost of surgery performed overseas can be as little as 20 percent of the price of the same procedure in the United States, according to a recent report by the American Medical Association." Read More

Singapore backs healthcare to heal financial trauma

The Daily Star, 15 March 2009

"As the global recession hits Singapore's manufacturing and shipping business, the government of the city-state now focuses on attracting more international patients to its world-class hospitals with competitive price offer to help maintain its economy." Read More

News Highlights from 2008

Medical Tourism: Surviving the Global Recession

Business Week, 9 November 2008

"For years, some of Asia's premier hospitals have been popular destinations for US patients who either lack health insurance or can't get coverage for certain procedures. And recently there have been signs that insurance companies might start actively encouraging this trend to save on costs." Read More

Booming trend is standard operating procedure

The Miami Herald, 2 November 2008

"As the national debate over America's medical insurance system rages on, a quiet revolution is taking place behind the scenes. In growing numbers, the nation's 61 million uninsured and underinsured citizens are giving up on a system that doesn't meet their needs and are seeking medical treatment abroad." Read More

A guide for Americans seeking affordable medical treatment abroad

Los Angeles Times, 1 November 2008

"Improving quality and bargain prices are luring US patients to developing countries for increasingly sophisticated procedures." Read More

Special Report: Need Surgery? Call a Travel Agent

Men's Health Magazine, October 2008

"Hospital care in the United States is expensive, and rates of surgical complications and infections can be high. Those are just three reasons why your best option for surgery might be overseas." Read More

Riz Khan on Medical Tourism

Al Jazeera English, 8 September 2008

Noted international talk show host Riz Khan interviews the author of Patients Beyond Borders on the pros and cons of medical travel. Watch on YouTube

The Top Five Countries for Medical Travel

Foreign Policy, August 2008

"Experts project the international market for medical travel to explode in the coming years as more Americans and others, fed up with high costs and long wait times, seek everything from knee and hip replacements to bypass

surgeries." Read More

Book Lauds Nation's Medical Tourism

Taipei Times, 30 July 2008

"Taiwan is meeting the health needs of its people. Rated as having the second-best health care system in the world, it also offers tourism opportunities." Read More

Under The Knife In Bangalore

CBS News, 3 May 2008

"If he could have, Brad Barnum would have kissed the ground when he climbed out of the car in Ruidoso, New Mexico, at the end of March. But the 53-year-old building contractor had undergone major remodeling himself—and his new knee and two new hips ruled out kneeling for a few more weeks." Read More

Check in, Check up

Travel + Leisure Southeast Asia, April 2008

"With its world-class and luxurious medical facilities at affordable prices, Asia may become as popular for medical tourists as it is for holidaymakers." Read More

News Highlights from 2007

Globalizing Healthcare Q&A: Preparing for a Surgery Abroad

NPR, 14 November 2007

Patients Beyond Borders author responds to questions about preferred medical travel destinations, costs, and potential complications. Read More

Patient Travelers

Forbes, 20 October 2007

Forbes reports on the rising trend of medical travel, with focus on JCI accreditation and India's Wockhardt Hospital.

Read More

Passport to Cheaper Health Care?

Good Housekeeping Magazine, October 2007

"You can have surgery for less than half the price, but only in countries where you wouldn't drink the water. Is 'medical tourism' a brilliant solution—or a too-risky business?" Read More

Operation Vacation: Big Savings Have More Overseas Travelers Mixing Surgery With Sightseeing

The Washington Post, 9 September 2007

Inspired by Patients Beyond Borders, Washington Post staff writer Cindy Loose accompanies a patient to Thailand for a heart surgery. Read More

Prescriptions for Problems? Is It Safe to Get Your Healthcare Abroad?

Fox News, 15 July 2007

Fox News anchor Catherine Herridge interviews Josef Woodman and Peter Lavine on the pros and cons of international medical travel, hospital accreditation and more. Watch the interview

Medical Tourism's Popularity on the Rise

Financial Times, 22 June 2007

"'When I returned from my tour of 20 hospitals overseas, I showed my son the slides, and he kept asking if they were photos of my hotel,' Woodman says. 'In fact they were all pictures of the wards.'" Read More

Road Reads: Patients Beyond Borders

The Washington Post, 15 April 2007

"Forget shady Mexican clinics for phony cancer treatments. Today, more than 100 American-accredited hospitals around the world—particularly in Asia—offer complex, high-tech treatments, often in luxurious hospitals and recuperation centers... Woodman's book is a practical guide to planning a medical trip." Read More

Sun, Sand and Scalpels

The Economist, 8 March 2007

America's soaring healthcare costs are creating huge shifts in global healthcare services. Asian hospitals, filled with international medical travelers, are expanding facilities and services to keep up with demand. Read More

Last updated on 26 May 2014

- Partners
- Cleveland Clinic

- Bumrungrad International
- Sime Darby Healthcare
- Monterrey Healthcare City
- Dubai Healthcare City
- Tourism Authority of Thailand

- As Seen In
- U.S. News
- New York Times
- BBC
- AARP
- Wall Street Journal
- Oprah
- Smart Money

Destination | Hospital | Procedures | Patient Experiences | Health Travel Planners | Search

About | Media | Print Edition | TravelEmergency | Industry Partners | Contact

Find Patients Beyond Borders on:

Privacy policy | Terms and conditions of use policy

© 2011 Healthy Travel Media, All Rights Reserved
DesignHammer, a Raleigh - Durham web design company ~ Building Smarter Websites.